FINANCIAL AID APPLICATION PROCESS

To apply for financial aid, applicants and continuing students must start by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The FAFSA or Pre-Filled FAFSA can be completed online at www.studentaid.gov

Students and applicants are eligible to apply for financial aid to assist with educational expenses. In order to ensure that their financial aid proceeds are available within the first few weeks of school, applicants are encouraged to begin the financial aid application (FAFSA) process when you apply for Admission. The Financial Aid Office recommends that applicants not wait for the admissions decision before applying for financial aid. Continuing students are encouraged to meet the priority deadline (1st Monday of March each year). To apply for financial aid, students and applicants must complete the following:

FREE APPLICATION FOR FEDERAL STUDENT AID (FAFSA)

The Department of Education recommends that students complete the FAFSA or Pre-Filled FAFSA (www.studentaid.gov) on the Web rather than the paper application. Students are encouraged to complete the FAFSA as early as possible, but no sooner than October 1st. The Title IV institutional code is under University of the Pacific. The code is 001329. In order to sign the FAFSA form electronically, you must register for an FSA ID number at <https://www.fsaaid.ed.gov>. Once your FAFSA has been processed, a Student Aid Report (SAR) will be sent to you by email. The federal processor will send an electronic version of your SAR, which is called an ISIR, to McGeorge. The SAR outlines the information that you reported on the FOTW, and provides you with an Expected Family Contribution (EFC) amount. It is important to review your SAR for accuracy. If corrections must be made to your SAR, please do so immediately.

The priority deadline for continuing students to submit the FAFSA or Pre-Filled FAFSA is the first Friday of March each year. Applicants do not have a deadline. It takes approximately 3-4 weeks to process during peak periods. To check the status of your FAFSA, call (800) 433-3243, or you may check the application status online using your PIN number.

ADDITIONAL APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Verification

When students apply for federal financial aid, the U.S. Department of Education verifies information with the following federal agencies:

- Social Security Administration – for verification of social security number and United States citizenship status
- Selective Service System – for verification of Selective Service Registration status
- Department of Homeland Security – for verification of eligible non-citizenship status
- Department of Justice – for verification that an applicant has not been denied federal student aid by the courts as the result of a drug-related conviction
- Department of Veterans Affairs – for verification of veteran status

Students and applicants who apply for need-based financial aid may be asked by our office to supply additional documentation to verify the information that was reported on the FAFSA. Students will be awarded financial aid once all documentation has been received and evaluated. Accepted applicants will receive a tentative award based upon the ISIR information provided by the federal processor and may be asked to provide additional documentation if selected for verification. The verification process may require that selected students and applicants submit a copy of their prior year's federal income tax return, including all schedules and W-2's. If you are married and filed separate federal income tax returns, you must provide a copy of both you and your spouse's federal income tax returns with all schedules and W-2 forms. Federal income tax returns must be signed and dated.

Non-U.S. Citizen and Non-U.S. Permanent Residents

Non-U.S. Citizens and non-U.S. Permanent Residents are not eligible for federal financial aid. They are, however, eligible to apply for Private loans. In order to do so, they must have a co-signer that is a credit worthy U.S. citizen.

Selective Service

In order for male students (with some exceptions) to be eligible for federal financial aid, they must be registered with the selective service. Students can register on-line at www.sss.gov.

COST OF ATTENDANCE

The cost of attendance is determined by the Financial Aid Office and is defined as the total budget required by each student for the nine (9) month academic year. The cost of attendance reflects a budget that includes both direct and non-direct costs.

Direct Costs are charges applied directly to the student account. Examples of direct costs are tuition, rent (if the student rents an on-campus apartment), Student Government fees and Health Insurance.

Sample 2021-2022 Academic Year Tuition and Fees

JD Full Time (12-17 Units)	$57,358
JD Part-Time (8-10 Units)	$38,094
LL.M., JSD	$1,446 per unit
MSL, MPP, MPA	$1,457 per unit
Fees	$280-$430
Health Insurance	$3,586

Non-Direct Costs are charges not applied to the student account. Examples of non-direct costs include rent (if the student lives off-campus), board, books, supplies, transportation, and personal expenses. Although individual expenses for non-direct costs may vary, the financial aid budget closely estimates the actual expense of each above-mentioned cost.

Sample 2022-2023 Nine (9) Month Living Expense Budget

Living Expense	Amount
Room & Board	$17,784
Transportation	$936
Personal Expenses	$3,294
Total	$22,644

Other Expenses:

Books & Supplies	$3,110 will be added to each Full-Time student's budget. $2,400 will be added to each Part-Time student's budget.
Tuition & Fees	Refer to the 2022-2023 McGeorge School of Law catalog.
Child Care Allowance	Actual cost may be added to the budget.

Many students ask for an increase to the budget for special unusual and extraordinary expenses. Complete a "Petition to Change Your Financial Aid Package" and provide documentation of those expenses to the Financial Aid Office.

APPLICATION PROCESSING

Financial need is determined based upon the information provided on the FAFSA and need analysis. The need analysis formula is termed Federal Methodology (FM) and is applied as set forth by the Department of Education. Federal Methodology was passed by Congress under the Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended by the Higher Education Amendments of 1992 and 2005.

EXPECTED FAMILY CONTRIBUTION

The Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is the amount the student is expected to contribute toward their educational costs. The EFC is federally regulated and is established by the income, asset(s) and household information provided on the FAFSA. Graduate and professional school students are considered independent for financial aid need analysis purposes. Therefore, you are not required to report parental information on the FAFSA.

FINANCIAL NEED

This amount is determined by subtracting the student's Expected Family Contribution (EFC) from the Cost of Attendance.

The need analysis calculation is as follows:

Cost of Attendance - Expected Family Contribution (EFC) = Financial Need.

FINANCIAL AID AWARD LETTER

Once the Financial Aid Office receives the electronically transmitted FAFSA information (ISIR) from the federal processor, each student who has been admitted to the School of Law is reviewed for financial aid awarding. The Financial Aid Office offers financial aid packages that may include scholarships, grants, and/or Federal Direct loans. The Financial Aid Award Letter lists all of the financial aid that is being offered to the student. You can view your awards on insidePacific, the University's secure portal.

Continuing students must re-apply each academic year for financial aid. Factors such as budget and academic standing may play an important role in determining financial aid availability. Continuing students' Financial Aid Award Letters are not generated until early July; after Spring Semester grades have been released and all necessary paperwork has been received and reviewed.

SCHOLARSHIPS

McGeorge School of Law awards a considerable number of scholarships. Many of these awards are made available by the allocation of University general funds, as well as the generosity of donors by means of endowed funds and alumni contributions. Financial aid, in the form of scholarships and fellowships, is based on full-time enrollment, financial need, academic merit, and personal achievement. Scholarships and fellowships are considered a component of the student's financial aid award. Scholarships cannot exceed the banded tuition for the division you are enrolled.

Institutional scholarships, including, but not limited to Admission and Academic Achievement scholarships are awarded to a full-time student enrolled in 12-17 units and a part-time student enrolled in 8-10 units. Scholarships are eligible to be applied to the fall and spring semesters only. If a reduced course load is taken, institutional scholarships will be prorated based on the percentage of tuition charged.

If you have applied for outside scholarships or need-based financial aid, please note that total assistance, including scholarships, cannot exceed your costs of attendance. In addition, the combined value of a Pacific grant or scholarship and any other tuition award cannot exceed your actual tuition. Total tuition assistance may also be limited by policies associated with other programs or benefits, for example, Veterans Chapter 31 Vocational Rehabilitation, employee tuition remission, etc. The Financial Aid Office will coordinate your aid package and notify you of any necessary adjustments.

Many scholarships are funded through the generosity of our alumni, faculty, staff, and friends. They are designed by the donors to recognize and encourage the achievement and potential of McGeorge students. Scholarship gifts provide crucial support to current and future students at McGeorge.

Many alumni recall how a scholarship helped them through law school and have chosen to help future students by providing scholarship assistance. Please contact the Advancement Office at 916.739.7300 if you are interested in establishing a scholarship or contributing to one.

First-Year JD Scholarships

The Admissions Committee awards a number of scholarships annually to members of the first-year class based upon such criteria as outstanding academic promise, diversity, experiential background, and need. Many are renewable for each year of the J.D. program.

In all of those roles she was hardworking, intelligent, responsive, imaginative, and always looking out in a warm and sensitive manner for the best interests of the student body and for individual applicants and students. It has taken many more than one person to replace her in all of those roles. In most meetings of alumni, there usually are persons who recount a kind and thoughtful thing that Dean Kelso did to help them. More than this, however, she was innovative with respect to development of the school, establishing and leading a unique summer program for pre-law students and playing an instrumental role in successfully launching what is now the law school's Capital Center program. Some of the scholarships and awards are automatic and do not require an application or establishment of need. An example of such a program is the Academic Achievement Scholarships.

Academic Achievement Scholarships named the Verne Adrian and Annabel McGeorge Academic Scholarship in honor of the founder and first Dean of the School of Law and his wife who served as Registrar from 1927 until 1958, these scholarships are awarded automatically to those who demonstrated the highest excellence in their legal studies during the preceding academic year (amounts may vary each year).

Also, it is important to remember that not all scholarships specify academic achievement as a requirement.

All scholarships, awards, and grants administered by McGeorge are credited directly to the students' account in two equal installments, one-half for the Fall semester and one-half for the Spring semester. A student must register at McGeorge for a particular semester to be eligible for that semester's portion of the scholarship. In the event a student registers for a semester but withdraws prior to the start of the semester, the amount of the scholarship will be reduced to an amount equal to the portion that was allocated to the semester in which the student was actually enrolled. In addition, if a student withdraws during the semester, the student's scholarship will be pro-rated to the percentage the student was charged for tuition for that semester. If a student will be graduating in December, the student's award will be reduced to receiving a Fall semester allotment only.

Other terms and conditions

If you have applied for outside scholarships or need-based financial aid, please note that total assistance, including scholarships, cannot exceed your costs of attendance. In addition, the combined value of a Pacific grant or scholarship and any other tuition award cannot exceed your actual tuition. OUTSIDE SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The most valuable tool in searching for scholarship opportunities is the Internet. Scholarships may also be available through local bar associations, state government offices, public and/or private organizations or employers. Numerous private agencies notify our office of scholarship opportunities and provide application materials to be distributed to students. All scholarships are posted on the bulletin board located near the Financial Aid Office and emailed to students.

- Have demonstrated financial need (Federal Work-Study only);
- be a citizen, national, or permanent resident of the United States or provide evidence from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) that you are in the U.S. for other than a temporary purpose with the intention of becoming a permanent resident;

If you wish to obtain financial aid, you are strongly encouraged to complete the necessary forms to determine need. In many cases, students who believe they do not qualify for need-based aid have found that they do qualify by completion of the application process (FAFSA).

FEDERAL AND PRIVATE LOAN PROGRAMS

The majority of law students find it necessary to borrow money in order to finance their education. It is important to plan prudently and to select the loans that are best for you.

Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loan

William D. Ford Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford loans are not awarded based on a student's financial need. Through this program a student may borrow up to $20,500 annually. The aggregate loan limit is $138,500. The interest rate is a variable-fixed rate tied to the 10-year Treasury bill plus 3.6% with a 9.5% cap. The interest rate will be determined each year and set for loans disbursed after July 1 through the following June 30. The Unsubsidized interest begins to accrue immediately upon disbursement. The student has the option of paying the interest or allowing it to accrue while in school. Repayment begins six months after the borrower graduates or is no longer enrolled at least half-time. Federal law requires both entrance and exit counseling for this loan.

Bar Loans

The Bar Examination loan is a private credit-based loan program that is available to graduating law students to assist with expenses incurred during the Bar Examination process. Expenses include exam fees, review courses, and living expenses while preparing to take the Bar examination.

LOAN APPLICATION PROCESS

Both Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford and Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loan applications are completed on-line.

Federal regulations require all Federal Direct Loan borrowers complete the Master Promissory Note (MPN). You may e-sign your MPN. The MPN is a legally binding contract. By signing the MPN, the borrower agrees to all terms and conditions, including the responsibility of repaying all borrowed funds, plus interest and fees (if applicable). The MPN, which is valid for up to ten (10) years, allows a student to borrow multiple Federal Direct Stafford loans using the one promissory note.

Entrance Counseling

Federal Direct Loans cannot be disbursed until Entrance Counseling is complete. The purpose of entrance counseling is to advise students of their rights and responsibilities as an educational loan borrower. The entrance counseling sessions are completed online. You will receive information regarding how to complete entrance counseling in your Financial Aid Award letter. Also, you will be required to attend a Financial Aid Orientation session offered by the Financial Aid Office during the Orientation week.

Loan Disbursement

When all loan application requirements are complete, funds are sent electronically in two equal disbursements (one per semester) and applied to your student account.

Note: If you will be attending a single semester and/or Summer School, your Federal Direct Stafford and Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loans will come in one disbursement. The disbursement will be at the beginning of the semester.

Loan fees, if applicable, are deducted from each loan disbursement. If a refund is due to the student, the Business Office will automatically calculate your refund. Your refund will be sent electronically (EFT) to your checking account if you completed the Direct Deposit Authorization form. Otherwise, your refund will be in the form of a paper check and mailed to your home.

FEDERAL WORK-STUDY

The Federal Work-Study program was established by the federal government to provide support to students who require employment earnings to assist in financing their law school education. Federal Work-Study is a need-based program and its earnings are considered a component of the student's financial aid award. McGeorge School of Law has allocated most of its Federal Work-Study funds to jobs which are directly related to legal studies, so that the student not only earn support but, also, gains valuable practical legal experience from the Federal Work-Study employment. There are a variety of Federal Work-Study jobs available both on-campus and off-campus. All Federal Work-Study openings are posted on the bulletin boards located at the Financial Aid Office and on Symplicity.

Students who are interested in participating in the Federal Work-Study program must check with the Financial Aid Office to determine their eligibility for a work-study allocation. After you have been informed of your Federal Work-Study eligibility and hired for a work-study position you must complete the required Federal Work-Study paperwork (see the Financial Aid Office).

McGeorge pays you and bills the employer for its share of the cost. A portion of each student's rate of pay is paid from the Federal Work-Study allocation, while the other portion is paid from McGeorge or the off-campus employer.

Your time worked is posted through an electronic timesheet (web time entry). Pay days are every other Friday. You may elect to have your paycheck direct deposited into your checking or savings account or mailed to the address we have on file.

SUMMER SESSION, VISITING AND TRANSFER STUDENTS

Summer Sessions/Study Abroad Programs

Financial aid is available to students enrolled in summer sessions. If you wish to borrow loans for the summer session, there is a separate Summer Loan Request Form that must be completed. Federal Direct Graduate PLUS loans are the primary source of funding for the summer term. Scholarships and grants are not available for the summer term. To ensure that loan funds are available at the start of the summer term, students must complete the summer loan process no later than May 1st.

Visiting Students and the Consortium Agreements

If you plan to visit another ABA approved law school and are in need of financial aid, you must notify the Financial Aid Office in writing. If, on the other hand, you are visiting McGeorge from another school, you must contact your home school so that they may process your financial aid. A Consortium Agreement is required for all visiting students requesting financial assistance.

It is a McGeorge policy that McGeorge students visiting another law school are not eligible to receive scholarship funds, or Federal Work-Study. McGeorge visiting students are eligible to receive Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loans and Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loans.

Transfer Students

Transfer students are eligible to apply for financial aid to assist with educational expenses. In order to ensure that their financial aid proceeds are available within the first few weeks of school, transfer students are encouraged to begin the financial aid application process when you apply for Admission. To apply for financial aid, you must start by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The FAFSA or Pre-Filled FAFSA can be completed online at www.studentaid.gov

Satisfactory Academic Progress

Federal regulations (CFR 668.34) require that a student must be making satisfactory academic progress in order to be eligible for federally assisted financial aid programs that include Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loans, Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loans and the Federal Work-Study program.

A JD student is making satisfactory academic progress at McGeorge for financial aid purposes if the student meets standards for continued enrollment with a cumulative GPA of 2.33 or higher pursuant to the Grading and Advancement Committee Rules, Regulations and Procedures, a copy of which located on the McGeorge School of Law website (<http://www.mcgeorge.edu/Documents/Policies/gAndARules.pdf>).

The LL.M. program evaluates academic standing at the completion of 24 units. See Academic Probation below.

A MPA, MPP or MSL student must maintain a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.0 at the end of the second semester.

Institutional Aid

If the Grading and Advancement Committee requires a student to repeat an academic year, there will be no institutional funds awarded during that year.

Academic Probation

The Director of Financial Aid is responsible for monitoring the satisfactory academic progress of all recipients of federally assisted financial aid. At the conclusion of each academic year, the Registrar provides the Director of Financial Aid a list of all students on academic probation.

JD Students who have a cumulative GPA that falls within the range of 2.180 through and including 2.324 at the end of any academic year other than the final year are not making satisfactory academic progress. MPA, MPP or MSL students who have a cumulative grade point average below 3.0 at the end of the second semester is not making satisfactory academic progress. Students who are not making satisfactory academic progress will be placed on academic probation and put on a year-long academic plan. Please read the Grading and Advancement Committee Rules located on the law school's website (<http://www.mcgeorge.edu/Documents/Policies/gAndARules.pdf>) for more information. A student must submit a written petition to the Satisfactory Academic Progress Committee for approval to receive federal aid during the probationary year. The appeal must explain the poor performance and how the performance will improve during the probationary year. If the appeal is approved you will be eligible for Federal Financial Aid but put on Financial Aid Probation. During this probationary period your progress will be reviewed at the end of the fall semester. After the review, if it is determined that you are not making sufficient academic progress you will not be eligible to receive Federal Financial Aid for the spring semester.

McGeorge School of Law will allow JD students to receive federal aid for a maximum of eighty four months after they commence law study at McGeorge or a law school from which McGeorge has accepted transfer units. This time frame corresponds with ABA Standard 304(c).

MPA, MPP or MSL students are allowed to receive federal aid for a maximum of 7 years which corresponds with the University's catalog.

An LL.M student who's cumulative GPA falls within the range from 2.18 through and including 2.324 after meeting the 24 unit requirement may continue enrollment through the end of the next semester on academic probation. A student must submit a written petition to the Satisfactory Academic Progress Committee for approval to receive federal aid during the probationary year. The appeal must explain the poor performance and how the performance will improve during the probationary year. If the appeal is approved you will be eligible for Federal Financial Aid but put on Financial Aid Probation. During this probationary period your progress will be reviewed at the end of the fall semester. After the review, if it is determined that you are not making sufficient academic progress you will not be eligible to receive Federal Financial Aid for the spring semester.

Payment of Amount Due

Financial Aid resources such as loans and Federal Work-Study are not available until the beginning of the Fall Semester. Therefore, you should not count on those financial aid resources to assist you with living expenses and other amounts due at the time of registration.

If you are not able to pay the full amount of Fall Semester tuition at the time of registration, you may request to participate in the Deferred Payment Plan which is described below, or you can request deferral of the payment of tuition until proceeds of a pending approved loan has been received.

Installment Plan

An installment plan to pay tuition and fees is offered to all students except for those who are attending McGeorge on an F-1 or J-1 visa. Each student that elects to participate in the Installment Payment Plan must sign a contract with the Business Office by the dates outlined below. Students who receive Financial Aid may also elect to participate in this plan to pay off any remaining balance on tuition and fees. For more information please contact the Business Office at business_office@pacific.edu.

Emergency Loans

If you are faced with an unexpected emergency, the School of Law may approve a short term non-interest bearing loan of up to $250. The loan is payable within ninety days or before the end of the school term. Students are limited to one emergency loan outstanding at any time.

Loan forms are available in the Financial Aid Office and the loan must be approved by the Director of Financial Aid. The normal processing time for an emergency loan is three to five working days.

Refund and Withdrawal Policy

In the event that a student drops classes or leaves McGeorge, a formal withdrawal must be processed with the Registrar's Office. The student must also contact the Office of Financial Aid to arrange for an exit interview. Failure to complete the withdrawal process will result in continued liability for tuition and other charges.

Return of Title IV Funds is a federally mandated policy that applies only to students who receive Federal Financial Aid and who withdraw, drop out, are dismissed, or take a Leave of Absence prior to completing 60% of a semester. The Return of Title IV Funds policy does not apply to students who reduce their units and remain enrolled. Return of Title IV Funds will be used to determine how much aid, if any, must be returned to Title IV loan programs. The Title IV funds considered in the policy are the Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loan, and the Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loan. The policy does not apply to the Federal Work-Study program.

The Return of Title IV Funds calculation identifies two types of federal aid, earned and unearned. The earned aid is based on a percentage calculated by dividing the number of days the student completed by the number of days in the payment period. A student who remains enrolled beyond the 60% point earns all disbursed (received) and disbursable aid. Disbursable aid includes aid received and the aid that could have been (but was not) disbursed as of the withdrawal date. If earned aid exceeds disbursed aid, a post- withdrawal disbursement may be made. McGeorge will first credit post-withdrawal disbursement not credited to school charges. Within 30 days of determination that the student withdrew, the student will be provided with a written notification of any post- withdrawal funds that are available to the student. No post-withdrawal disbursement will be made if the student does not respond within 14 days of the notification date.

Unearned aid is any disbursed aid that exceeds the amount of Title IV aid the student earned. The unearned aid amount is to be returned to the lender, a responsibility shared by McGeorge School of Law and the student. This may create a balance owed on your Student Account. The student is responsible to pay the amount owing on their account.

McGeorge must return its share of unearned funds no later than 45 days after it determines that the student withdrew. Students must repay their share according to the terms and conditions stated in their promissory note(s). Funds returned to lenders by McGeorge will be distributed first to the Federal Unsubsidized Stafford Loan then to the Federal Subsidized Loan, Federal Perkins Loan and finally to the Federal Graduate PLUS Loan.

This policy is based on 34 CFR, Section 668.22 of Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1964, as amended. The formula is prescribed in Section 484(b).

Institutional scholarships will be prorated based on the percentage of tuition charged.

Exit Interviews

Federal regulations require exit counseling for all Federal loan borrowers. McGeorge students are required to complete an on-line exit counseling session, as well as attend an exit counseling session in person. The purpose of the exit interview is to answer any questions you may have regarding your rights and responsibilities as an education loan borrower. The exit interview session provides graduates with an aggregate summary of the loans borrowed while enrolled at McGeorge and offers information on repayment and loan consolidation.

Loan History

Graduates can locate prior and current federal loans by accessing National Student Loan Data Systems (NSLDS) at www.studentaid.gov. This website has information on loan amounts, outstanding loan balances, loan statutes, and disbursements. In order to access your records on the NSLDS website, you will need to provide your social security number, the first two digits of your last name, date of birth, and FAFSA PIN number. Lenders provide graduates with a disclosure statement and repayment schedule that define the repayment terms of their loan(s).

Clearinghouse / Student Loan Deferment

Deferment forms for federal forms are no longer necessary. McGeorge verifies students' enrollment to the National Student Loan Clearinghouse on a monthly basis during periods of enrollment. When the Clearinghouse receives and processes the enrollment file from McGeorge, they will transmit enrollment verification to each students' federal lender, servicer and guarantor.

Deferment forms for private loans should be submitted to the Financial Aid Office. The Financial Aid Office will send the private loan deferment forms to the Clearinghouse for completion.

Federal Student Loan Consolidation

Federal Loan Consolidation is designed to help individuals who have high monthly student loan payments. With Federal Loan Consolidation, you can consolidate all or some of your outstanding federal education loans, even if your loans are currently held by more than one lender and are of different loan types. Direct Loan Consolidation creates a single, new loan with one monthly payment.

Extended Student Loan Repayment Program

The extended repayment schedule is limited to borrowers with loans first disbursed on or after October 7, 1998, with an outstanding balance of principal and interest in Direct/ FFEL Program loans totaling more than $30,000. The lender may schedule the borrower for standard or graduated installments over a period of not to exceed 25 years.

Payment must cover at least the interest due.
